OPERATION ON KING.

SUCCESS LEADS TO AIR OF OPTIMISM.

PLEURAL EFFUSION DRAINED WITH HAPPY RESULTS.

DIFFICULT STRUGGLE.

His Majesty the King, fighting magnificently against his illness, has rallied wonderfully, and there is reason to be more hopeful concerning the ultimate result.

A definite turn for the better is to be found in an announcement to-day that the infection is once again localised, and that a successful operation was performed last night for the drainage of pleural effusion on the right side of the chest, the development of which, while awaited anxiously, makes the direction of advance more defined.

The Queen, the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family, awaited the result with tense anxiety, and were the first to hear the glad news.

The fact that the King was able to undergo an operation, is commented upon as wonderful tribute to the strength of his constitution.

At midnight, His Majesty's condition was satisfactory.

INFECTION AGAIN LOCALISED.

London, Dec. 12. A much more hopeful feeling prevailed at Buckingham Palace to-day, though anxiety continues. The King's condition since last night, and the wonderful rally mentioned in the earlier bulletin, shows the remarkable strength with which His Majesty is still fighting his illness on the twenty-second day of his exhausting course.

At 3.20 p.m. an extra bulletin was posted at the Palace, as follows: "The slight improvement in the King's condition noticed this morning is maintained. Some purulent fluid round the base of the right lung was removed by puncture this morning and further drainage will be necessary." (Signed) Stanley Hewitt, L. E. Whitby, Farquhar Buzzard, Humphry Rolleston, Dawson of Penn.

Kept a Secret.

The afternoon bulletin came as a complete surprise, even to many of the Palace household. The secret of the minor operation for the removal of the fluid was well kept. The five doctors were with the King for an hour before the bulletin was issued. Dr. Lionel Whitby, the bacteriologist, called shortly before the others.

Officials at the Palace were reluctant to comment, but the mention of the maintenance of the improvement is undoubtedly a good sign.

Sir Hugh Riggby, Surgeon to the King's Household, and one of the most famous surgeons in the world, visited the Palace this evening, and unofficial medical experts, expressed the opinion that the postponing of Sir Hugh was connected with the cutting of two small portions of two adjacent ribs for the purpose of drainage.

Operation Performed.

This surmise proved correct, for a bulletin issued at 8.45 p.m. and signed by the five doctors above and Sir Hugh Riggby, states:

"An operation on the King for the drainage of the right side of the chest was successful. The condition of His Majesty was satisfactory. Sir Hugh Riggby was the surgeon."

Dr. Francis E. Shipway was the anaesthetist. He is the inventor of the Shipway anaesthetising apparatus.

The Prince of Wales, and the Duke and Duchess of York were with Her Majesty the Queen while the operation was carried out.

The decision to operate followed the finding of pleural fluid, some of which was removed by puncture during the morning. The fluid was what the doctors were seeking when they conducted exploration by needle and by X-Ray examination on Friday. Then they were unable to find any marked effusion.

Later, the infection which had become localised in the right lung suddenly spread generally throughout the body and it was this which gave rise to the grave anxiety of the past two days.

A Miracle.

The King's rally last night follows what might be described as a miraculous return of localised infection instead of general infection. This is regarded as a good sign since it meant that the doctors could carry out active treatment. This they did in the morning with the happy result that they were able to arrange for the operation later on in the day.

The operation could not have been performed had the King been unable to maintain his strength despite the attack of the disease. The lower temperature recorded this morning was the first sign that the infection was again localised. The operation was finished at 7.50 p.m.

An air of tense anxiety prevailed through the Palace during the operation, in connexion with which the doctors were consulting almost continuously all day long. Preparations were made in the afternoon.

Prince and Queen Wait News.

The Prince of Wales, the Queen, the Duke and Duchess of York and Princess Mary were the first to hear the glad news that the operation had been successful.

Late to-night, the previous anxiety was replaced by an air of subdued optimism in the Palace. The Prince of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of York left Buckingham Palace after the operation, but returned at nine o'clock to dine with the Queen.

Tax on Strength.

The operation was a great tax on His Majesty's strength, which has already been impaired by 22 days of illness, but the fact that the King was able to undergo an operation at all is regarded as remarkable and as a wonderful tribute to the strength of his constitution.

Those in close touch with the Royal circle are hopeful, therefore, as to the ultimate result, but they realise that a long and difficult struggle is still ahead.

An official statement concerning the history of His Majesty's illness, dated to-day, and timed at three o'clock this afternoon, authorised for publication in the medical Press, says:

"General blood infection, toxæmia, were prominent features for the first fortnight and at one time caused grave anxiety, and, moreover, the characteristics of typical pleuro-pneumonia were not present."

"A week ago, the evidences of general infection became less prominent. Nevertheless, as the original pleurisy had involved the diaphragm, a careful

TERRIBLE OUTRAGE IN ALGERIA.

HIGH OFFICERS OF FOREIGN LEGION AMBUSHED.

FANATIC TRIBESMEN.

Paris, Dec. 12.

A shocking outrage by rebel tribesmen in Algeria is announced by the War Office to-day, one of the highest officers in the Foreign Legion being ambushed in the desert and killed, together with a number of his staff.

The object of the attack was General Clavery, the officer commanding the vast Ain Sefra district, which is adjacent to the Moroccan border.

General Clavery, accompanied by Staff Captain Pasquet, Staff Captain Debenne, two N.C.O.'s, and a party of troops of the Foreign Legion, were returning from a tour of inspection, when they were ambushed in the desert about forty miles south of the Colomb Bechar Railway terminus near the border.

The hidden tribesmen opened with a fusillade, after which sixteen horsemen dashed headlong at the General's car, regardless of risks, and took the whole party by surprise. The General, his Staff Officers and one of the N.C.O.'s were killed immediately.

Five of the Legionnaires were shot dead in the subsequent fight, while three wounded have been taken to Colomb Bechar. General Clavery's promotion from Colonelcy was only gazetted to-day.—Reuter.

watch was kept for the formation of fluid between the lung and the diaphragm and its extension to the posterior pulmonary surface.

"There were signs of this development this morning, accompanied by increased leucocytes, and drainage will now be performed."

"Though this pleural localisation of the infection has been so anxiously anticipated, it makes the direction of advance much more defined and much more hopeful."

"There is still prospect of a long and difficult struggle."

It was officially stated at 11.30 p.m. to-night that the King's condition hitherto continues satisfactory.

The Prince of Wales, who talked for a long time with the doctors left Buckingham Palace at 11.15 p.m.

The doctors, who had been in almost constant consultation since the afternoon, departed at 11.29 p.m., with the exception of Sir Stanley Hewitt, who is remaining the night.—Reuter.

Queen Unveils Memorial.

The Queen's devotion to duty was shown to-day by her decision, despite her deep anxiety, to fulfil her engagement to unveil the War Memorial, which has been erected on Tower Hill by the Governments of the Empire, to men of the Mercantile Marine and Fishing Fleets, who lost their lives in the War and whose only grave is the sea.

Twelve thousand and eighty-six names are engraved on the Memorial, which was designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens, and takes the form of a vaulted corridor, sixty-four feet by seventeen feet. On her way to the Memorial, Her Majesty was the object of popular sympathy, which was shown by a deeply impressive silence, instead of the ovation which normally would have been given her.

"RUN" ON PEKING BANKS.

DEPOSITORS RUSH TO GET THEIR MONEY.

CASH FROM TIENSIN.

Shanghai, Dec. 13.

News has been received here to the effect that on Tuesday there was a big "run" on five of the leading Chinese banks in Peking.

Large crowds of depositors assembled at the Banks wishing to withdraw their money, in view of rumours that these institutions were in financial difficulties.

In order to meet the demands of the depositors, officials of the five Banks telegraphed to their branch offices in Tientsin this morning asking them immediately to remit a sum of two million dollars to relieve the situation.

In the meantime, considerable excitement has been caused by the fact that one of the banks has already suspended payment, and also because the managers of some of the others have applied to the authorities for assistance.

It is reported that, at the request of the Bank officials, General Sheung Chen, acting Garrison Commander at Peking, has ordered a special armoured train to be sent to Tientsin for the purpose of bringing the two million dollars to Peking.—Nam Chung Pao.

GERMANY'S TRADE IN CHINA.

MARKED INCREASE IN POST-WAR SITUATION.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT

Berlin, Dec. 12.

The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag has sanctioned the Trade and Shipping Agreements between Germany and the Union of South Africa, as well as the Trade and Shipping Agreements between Germany and Panama, and the German-Chinese Trade Agreement.

Dealing with the Trade Agreement between Germany and China, the Government spokesman pointed out that all restrictions of Germany's position compared with other countries in the trade with China had been eliminated.

He said Germany's post-war trade with China had exceeded since 1925 all the pre-war trade figures.

The value of goods exchanged with China in 1927 surpassed 1913 by 48 per cent, and the first six months of 1928 had already reached the total figures of the 1913 trade to Germany, while both years had exceeded the trade to China by 100 per cent.—Reuter.

CHINESE BRIDE MURDER.

HOW MIAO'S APPEAL FAILED.

JUDGE ON "CUNNING AND CUPIDITY."

THE HIDDEN RINGS.

London, Nov. 21.

"He complained that he was misunderstood. His difficulty is not that—his difficulty is that he was understood. The appeal is dismissed."

In these dramatic words Lord Hewart delivered judgement yesterday in the Court of Criminal Appeal, in the appeal by Chung Yi Miao against sentence of death passed on him at Carlisle Assizes for the murder of his wife, Wai Sheung Miao.

Miao was married in May, and it was alleged that he murdered his wife while on his honeymoon in the Lake District, to gain possession of her jewels, valued at £1,000.

Yesterday Mr. Maxwell Fyfe, on behalf of the Crown, handed to the Bench two rings and a cardboard box containing a film spool in which one of the rings was found.

The Vital Question.

"The whole question for this Court," said Lord Hewart, "is whether there was evidence upon which the jury at the assizes might properly come to the conclusion that they did come to."

Referring to Miao's education, Lord Hewart said, "His long statement and argument to this Court has at any rate served to show that he was familiar with the English language, and to no small extent with the niceties of the English language."

Lord Hewart pointed out that the rings were placed in a film spool carefully covered with tinfoil.

"How came those rings to be hidden in that box?" asked Lord Hewart.

"It was an elaborate attempt at concealment. Miao had explained that it was his wife who had put the rings at the end of the spool, and that he had seen her do it before she went out."

Miao (interrupting): She went out to wash herself.

Flat Contradiction.

The condemned man was immediately silenced, and Lord Hewart then called attention to a "flat contradiction" in Miao's evidence. He said he did not know whether his wife had any rings on before her death.

"That was flatly contradicted by his own story that he had seen her put the rings where they were found."

"The jury might well have thought that his culpidity had got the better of his cunning," commented Lord Hewart. Referring to the two mysterious Orientalists seen near Keswick on the day of the crime, Lord Hewart said the Court allowed fresh evidence to be given to ascertain whether there was any ground for the suggestion that these Orientalists were ever seen in the company of the dead woman.

There was no such evidence. "There is no ground at all for this appeal," concluded Lord Hewart, "and the indulgence which has been accorded him because he is a native of a country other than this country, and he might be thought to be somewhat impeded in his appeal."

Miao received the judgment with the same stoic calm which he had shown throughout the proceedings.

Miao's Desire.

When the appeal opened on Monday, Miao appeared in the dock between two warders. His counsel, Mr. J. C. Jackson, K.C., said that Miao was an American law student, and was anxious to put his case before the Court himself.

"He has said," added Mr. Jackson, "that the Almighty has told him to take his own case. That being so, I cannot interfere unless afterwards the Court desires to hear me."

After the members of the Court had consulted, Lord Hewart said that the position which had arisen (Continued on Page 3.)

POLICE FORCED TO OPEN FIRE.

SERIOUS MILL RIOTS IN NORTH BOMBAY.

TWO KILLED: 25 HURT.

Bombay, Dec. 12.

The serious disturbance in North Bombay was a sequel to a faction fight between two rival Labour camps in the course of which some of the Labour leaders came off very badly.

The police were hurried to the scene to break up the riot, and they were heavily stoned, being forced to use their revolvers in self-defence. The rioters consisted largely of mill strikers.

It is officially stated that two persons were killed and twenty-five injured, including two constables now lying seriously hurt in hospital, as the result of the riot.

The trouble commenced when the Labour rivals became involved in dispute, a lightning strike being called eventually, effecting a large number of mills.

When the police came into collision with the mob they flourished sticks in an effort to disperse the rioters, but the situation became critical as the result of stone-throwing and they were forced to fire on the mob.—Reuter.

The question of M. Klotz's mental responsibility has still to be decided. He has entered a sanatorium, on the advice of two mental specialists.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN THE CITY.

FIVE CHINESE DIE IN THE FLAMES.

SEVEN HOUSES INVOLVED IN NARROW STREET.

BLAZE RAPID SPREAD.

Five Chinese were killed and a man removed to hospital with serious burns, as the result of a disastrous fire which broke out in the early hours of this morning in the crowded native quarter of Taipingshan, above Hollywood Road. One of the most serious of its kind for some time past, the outbreak involved seven houses all situated in Upper Station Street, two of them, including No. 20, where it originated, being completely burnt out.

So sudden was the outbreak, and so rapidly did it develop, that a number of people were trapped. One of the Chinese women killed was subsequently found in a position indicating that she was burned to death in her sleep.

Spreads Across Street.

The call, dispatched by an unknown person from the fire alarm device in Sai Street, was received at the Central Fire Station at 2.30 a.m. four engines being despatched to the scene. The ground floor of No. 20 Upper Station Street, where the outbreak started, was then well ablaze and the whole building was completely involved when the first fire hoses began to operate.

Very soon the whole building was in a blaze, which then spread not only sideways to the two houses immediately adjoining, but also across the narrow width of Upper Station Street to the building opposite No. 7.

It is a curious fact that while other buildings placed closer to the seat of the fire were only damaged, No. 7 across the way, should share the fate of No. 20 in being completely gutted.

With an outbreak of such intensity, the danger to other buildings in that crowded locality was fully realised. The Brigade sent for reinforcements and with the arrival of two other engines from the substations at Wanchai and Kennedy Town, practically the whole of the fire-fighting resources on the Island were utilised.

Wild Rumours.

The job was a most difficult one, but by connecting up with the hydrants in the cross-sections of Taipingshan Street and Hollywood Road the firemen were able to use three pumps from which six deliveries were brought to bear on the burning buildings.

There were wild rumours during the fire of people being burnt to death in the flames. The rescue of at least one man, named Lee Kap, was effected from the first floor of the house in which the fire first broke out. He was taken out seriously hurt, suffering from burns in the neck, hands and legs, and was removed to hospital.

It was thought necessary to evacuate the tenants from many other houses in close proximity to the fire, the work of the police and firemen being at times hindered by the press of spectators.

Two Hours' Battle.

By 4.30 a.m. two hours after it started, the outbreak was got under control. No. 20 and No. 7 were burnt out with only the four walls left standing, while Nos. 18 and 22 were damaged extensively. The front portion of No. 24 had also suffered as well as the verandahs of two other houses situated side by side with No. 7 across the way.

Baking out the debris which was piled up several feet high on the site of what now remains of No. 20, the firemen came across the body of a woman, identified as that of a woman living on the second floor.

The remains were found lying on a bed which had crashed through, with the victim still lying on it, when the floor caved in. In consequence of reports having been received of other people missing, the firemen were still engaged in searching the debris when a (Continued on Page 14.)

STREET PROCESSION.

POLICE STOP FETE FOR GOD OF HOUSEBUILDERS.

Ten Chinese appeared before Mr. R. E. Lindsell yesterday afternoon in connexion with a procession which was held recently without due permission from the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs.

Mr. R. A. D. Forrest prosecuted and Mr. F. H. Losby represented the defendants. The defence pleaded guilty.

Outlining the facts which led to the appearance of the ten men before his Worship, Mr. Forrest stated that on November 14, one Chan Chi-sang applied to the S.C.A. for permission to hold a procession in connexion with the opening of the Lo Pan temple. The application being rather out of the ordinary, the matter was referred to Mr. North.

Mr. North informed Mr. Forrest not only to withhold the issuing of the permit, but also to advise the applicant not to hold the procession at all. The police were instructed to keep a lookout to see that the procession was in fact not held.

The police later reported that they had seen a procession and had taken the names of ten persons appearing to be members of the society who held the procession.

Mr. Lindsell: Then you draw no distinction between the liability of any of them?

Mr. Forrest replied that he understood from Mr. Losby that one of the defendants would admit the prime liability and was prepared on behalf of all the defendants to give a full and ample apology. In that case, Mr. Forrest thought that a very small fine on the person who took the responsibility would meet the case.

Mr. Losby said that as his Worship probably knew, the God of the Housebuilders was known as Lo Pan. His clients were members of the Carpenters and Contractors' Association.

Mr. Losby continuing said that Choy Un, one of the defendants, claimed to be the social secretary of the Association and as such was prepared to accept responsibility. The temple had been closed down for many years and was being reopened in Kennedy Town and his clients had applied to the S.C.A. for leave to hold a procession with the intention of staging one with two thousand people taking part.

Then the permit was refused and some discussion took place amongst Mr. Losby's clients as to what would and what would not be a contravention of the law on the subject and it was finally decided that if a very few people did go from their headquarters in Wanchai, to the temple that they would not be guilty of a breach of the law.

An Apology Tendered.

Mr. Losby went on to say that as a matter of fact forty-five people took part in the procession, which, as his Worship knew, the police stopped. When he (Mr. Losby) was consulted, he advised his clients that what they did amounted to holding a procession and that they must plead guilty.

In those circumstances, Mr. Losby offered, on behalf of his clients, the fullest possible apology and an expression of regret.

Mr. Forrest in reply to his Worship stated that he accepted that plea.

Mr. Lindsell then imposed a fine of $50 on Choy Un and $5 each on the others.

On hearing this, Mr. Losby said he was afraid that his Worship might have the view that the defendants committed the act deliberately. Mr. Losby thought he had satisfied the S.C.A. that any breach was purely unintentional.

Mr. Lindsell observed that the defendants had been refused permission.

Mr. Losby then said that obviously he had not made the

SURVEYOR'S CLAIM.

MR. HUNTER SUCCEEDS IN ACTION FOR FEES.

Mr. Justice Jacks yesterday afternoon delivered judgment for the plaintiff in the case in which Mr. R. H. Hunter, Prince's Building, surveyor to the Bureau Veritas, an International Register for the classification of shipping, sued the Kwong Sang Lung Shipbuilding Company, Mongkok, for $187.40. Mr. Hunter claimed the money as being due for work done and money expended at the request of the Kwong Sang Lung Firm. He claimed that $150 was for inspection of plans and specifications for the construction of a proposed steel steamer, and $37.40 being the cost of a telegram in that connexion.

Mr. T. J. Bennett was for the plaintiff and Mr. F. X. D'Almada defended.

Giving judgment, his Lordship said: This is an action to recover a sum due for services rendered by the plaintiff to a firm of shipbuilders. The facts are as follow:

The defendants contracted with a firm in Manila for the construction of a steamship which was to comply with the regulations of the Bureau Veritas, of which the plaintiff was the local representative. The defendants submitted plans and specifications to the plaintiff and signed a request to the plaintiff to survey the ship whilst under construction.

The plaintiff forwarded the plans and specifications to Paris and obtained telegraphic reply at the request of the defendants. He now seeks to recover the usual fees for his services and his disbursements.

The defence is, firstly, that the plaintiff is the agent of the firm who gave the order for building the ship and secondly, that he is not entitled to recover in person as he is only the agent of the Bureau Veritas.

Builder's Duty.

When a ship is to be built in accordance with certain requirements, it is the duty of the shipbuilder to comply with those requirements and take the necessary steps to that end. He would naturally include the cost of so doing in his contract price. I see no reason to believe that this practice has been departed from in this case.

I do not believe that any interviews, which the plaintiff may have had with the agent of the firm who gave the defendants the orders for the ship, affected the relationship between the plaintiff and the defendants in any way.

With regard to the second point, that the Bureau Veritas and not the plaintiff should have been the plaintiff in this action. It is true that the plaintiff is the accredited representative of the Bureau Veritas here, but there is no evidence that he is a salaried official of the Bureau and that the Bureau is entitled to everything he earns for his personal services here. The plaintiff stated that he merely pays to the Bureau a commission on what he earns. This was not disputed. I see no reason why he should not.

I give judgment for the plaintiff on the claim and costs.

matter clear to his Worship. The defendants had applied for leave to hold a procession of two thousand people and they were under the impression that a procession of forty-five people was no breach of the law and in fact were very much surprised when the police stopped them because they thought all the time that they were not guilty of any breach of the law.

Mr. Forrest said that he would, personally, be satisfied with a smaller fine. It was a small procession of about forty or fifty people.

His Worship accordingly reduced the fine on Choy Un to $20.

NEW PAVILION.

DIOCESAN GIRLS' SCHOOL BUILDING OPENED.

With the building gaily decorated with flags and the two pillars of the main entrance secured with blue and white ribbons, the newly erected pavilion of the Diocesan Girls' School presented a very pretty and impressive appearance yesterday on the occasion of the formal opening by Mrs. W. T. Southern, the wife of the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, Officer Administering the Government.

The chief attraction of the day was the bazaar, which was held in the school building and which was generously patronised by the large attendance of friends present.

Shortly after three o'clock, Mrs. Southern arrived and was met at the entrance to the playground by His Lordship, the Bishop of Victoria (The Rt. Rev. C. R. Duppuy) and Miss Sawyer (Headmistress of the School). The route leading to the pavilion, was lined by the Girl Guides Company, attached to the School.

On arrival at the entrance to the pavilion, Mrs. Southern severed the ribbons with a pair of scissors and walked inside. A short programme of music and dances was then presented by pupils of the school after which the assembly adjourned to the school building for the formal opening of the Bazaar.

His Lordship, the Bishop, briefly introduced Mrs. Southern and extended, on behalf of the School, a warm welcome to her for her presence. Mrs. Southern, continued the Bishop, had come for the double purpose of opening the pavilion as well as the bazaar. His Lordship expressed great pleasure at her attendance and remarked that her time was greatly occupied with many other public services.

Girls Very Fortunate.

Mrs. Southern expressed appreciation at what the Bishop had said. The opening of the playshed, she continued, gave her very special pleasure. It stood for so much that was good. To begin with the money had been raised through the efforts of the school combined with the assistance of the Government.

"The school has worked hard to achieve this result," proceeded Mrs. Southern, "and the Government has assisted substantially. Apart from the means by which it has been raised, I can see in the future all the benefit that hundreds of girls will derive here from healthy exercise and encouragement of the team spirit. Girls of the twentieth century are very fortunate. In former generations the enjoyment of fresh air and games appeared to be limited chiefly to boys. Croquet and later a mild game of tennis were all that could be allotted to girls.

But nowadays the whole world of games is open to them. I may be addressing the Betty Nuthalls, Cecil Lettices and Mercedes Gleitzers of the future.

Girls of the Diocesan School rejoice in the freedom, the glorious freedom you now enjoy. Make the most of this playshed. Let it at all times be filled with the spirit of good fellowship and good sportsmanship.

And at the same time I hope the bazaar you have organised will be a great success. I am filled with admiration of the vitality, the many-sidedness of the Diocesan School. I gather that the objects of the bazaar are the feeding of hungry children at Christmas, the assistance of the Victoria Home and the equipment of your playground. They are all deserving objects. I trust they will be liberally supported by purchasers, and that the harvest from your bazaar will be a very rich one."

Mrs. Southern then declared the bazaar open.

The latest sport being cultivated in Great Britain is that of balloon-jumping. One of the keenest exponents is Mr. C. G. Vickers, V. O., who carries a long pole and vaults along, the balloon carrying him high into the air between jumps as illustrated in the drawing.

The photograph was taken after the plane landed at the Hungjao Aerodrome. Below is seen Commander Cheung (in uniform) with his wife and several officials of the welcoming committee.

PROBLEM FOR BENCH.
DEAF AND DUMB YOUTH
UNABLE TO READ OR WRITE.

Brighton, Nov. 16.
A prisoner who was deaf and dumb, unable to read or write or to understand the deaf and dumb alphabet provided a problem at Brighton Police Court to-day. It was Jack Henry Silburn, aged 17, a French polisher, and was charged with the theft of £31 10s.

The father said that his son had never been to school, and had an elder brother who was deaf and dumb.

At the request of the Bench the father attempted to make his son understand the charge, and the son appeared to plead not guilty. Mr. J. R. Bishop (prosecuting) confessed that he was baffled, and asked for a remand in order to consider the position. The case was a serious one, which must be gone on with; although he fully realised that the Bench would desire to look after the youth's interests.

The magistrates granted an adjournment till Wednesday, and asked that expert medical advice be obtained in the meantime.

The father said the boy had undergone two or three operations to his nose and throat, and doctors could not understand why he could not speak.

FRANCE'S DEBT TO TOURISTS.

WHERE PARIS BEATS LONDON.

The value to France of money spent by tourists—and particularly by British tourists—was emphasised recently by Mr. Douglas Hackling, Minister for Overseas Trade. Speaking at the banquet of the French Chamber of Commerce in London, held at the Hyde Park Hotel, Mr. Hackling said that in 1927 833,000 persons entered France from Great Britain, 228,000 from North America, 634,000 from Spain, and 63,000 from Holland. If we added to them, as many tens of thousands of persons who went to France from the other European countries, from South America and from Egypt and the East, we should get a total figure for 1927 of about 1,800,000.

"If we think what that vast number of people must have spent we can believe that an estimate of fifty million pounds sterling is not out of the question. I believe some people put it as high as £100,000,000."

What Britain Offers.

"Surely we can learn something from this great industry of France's. I admit there are some ways in which we cannot compete. London is a city. In many respects, of unequalled charm to the visitor, but it would be foolish to suggest that it could compete on equal terms with that gaily and liveliness for which the name Paris has become almost a household word."

"But in Britain we have much to show the foreign tourist. Great Britain as a pleasure resort is not nearly well enough known abroad."

WOMAN'S WORLD FOR OUR LADY READERS.

Black Frocks.

HOW TO MAKE THEM BECOMING.

It is said, that black is going to be very much worn this winter. It probably will be—as it generally is—because there is something about a very good black frock which nothing else can exactly reproduce.

There are, however, quite a number of people who should take considerable care about the kind of black they wear, and the way in which they wear it. I know that there is a theory held by many women (and most men) to the effect that all women look their very best in black; but with this, as with most sweeping theories, it is necessary to make a few reservations.

The women who can always wear black with impunity have exceptionally good skins.

Colour of Hair.

The colour of the hair does not matter very much, as although the contrasts between corn-coloured, or silver, or copper hair and black are naturally good, the alliance between black and dark, brown or black hair which is neat and well burnished, is also definitely pleasing.

The principal reasons for wearing black for the time being, or for taking drastic steps towards providing a better background for its charms, are not difficult to remember.

Sallowness is the first of these. Black does the most brutal things to a sallow skin, and often makes the owner look sour as well. It is also demonically clever at emphasising the effects of worry or fatigue.

A "pepper-and-salt" effect about the head is another reason for treating black in a wary manner; and those with indeterminate features or pale eyes are also wise in regarding it with suspicion.

Black Can be Successful.

In nearly all cases, however, it is still possible to wear black successfully, if one wants to, by taking certain precautions.

The sallow complexion will appear quite fresh above a neat black suit if a wisely chosen scarf intervenes between the collar of the suit and the complexion of its wearer. The owner of pale eyes will choose a scarf which intensifies their colour; indeterminate features can acquire significance from the extra interest in life that a clever hat enforces; and the "pepper-and-salt" lady will first insist that her hair shall shine as it never shone before, and then arrange that her black evening gown has certain touches of steel or silver to relieve its sombreness. By JACQUELINE HOWARD.

The princess line is suggested in a lovely dress of white georgette, lightly embroidered in crystal beads. Its unaffected simplicity and the delicacy of the bead traceries, make it a most desirable toilette.

Evening Wraps.

SHOW MANY NEW FEATURES.

The evening wraps of the moment are sumptuous to a degree. The fur collar has returned to its former place in la Mode's affections, and seems to have grown out of all knowledge during its retirement.

Gauging has proved even more popular as a trimming on such garments than was expected by the Paris house that first exploited it. It is particularly effective on the new velvet—velours mouseline—that is woven on a chiffon foundation. Very close gauging can be used on this fabric without producing that bulkiness that is one of the chief disadvantages of this form of decoration.

For the Very Thin Woman.

One wrap shown in a London salon recently was of a tawny, amber-coloured velvet trimmed with natural red fox.

The top part was gauged to make a perfectly light-fitting corse to the natural waistline. A band of gauging further down gave the very newest outline. The too-thin woman (if such a creature exists) would find this a wonderfully flattering garment.

Waistcoat Wraps.

The Georgian waistcoat—attached at the side seams—was an outstanding feature of a brocade lame coat. Shades of jade predominated in the brocade, and jade buttons finished the plain gold lame waistcoat.

The coat had a habit-fitted back sharply gored below the waistline, so that it fell in fluted folds. Another model displayed one of Today's Recipe.

WALNUTTY CUTLETS.

The following is laid out for four beautifully trimmed and tenderly grilled cutlets. They are to be served with this sauce: Mince very finely two or three pickled walnuts and mix them with a tablespoonful of "foie gras" in a bowl or basin, adding half a breakfastful of the vinegar from the pickles. Place the bowl in a pan of boiling water and stir the mixture thoroughly with a wooden spoon. No metal must be permitted to approach. When very hot, add a dessertspoonful of Sauterne. Put the cutlets in a hot dish (non-metallic), pour over them the sauce, and serve very hot. It is nice to use the very only of the cutlets, and omelettes are capital this way.

hose de luxe fur coats which so many women prefer above everything else for evening wear. The over part was of seal musquash, which was cut into an open-work design and inserted into the ermine top. White fox was used for the collar and cuffs.

The same design could be carried out quite successfully and much more economically in black and white velvet, or in black velvet with gold or silver lame.

Importance of Sleeves.

Many simple, straight wraps are seen this season with the entire interest concentrated on the sleeves. Much character can be introduced into a perfectly plain garment in this way.

PAST AND FUTURE.

In his speech on the occasion of the opening of the Peninsula Hotel, His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government chose an appropriate theme when he spoke of the broad vision of the "giants of the past" and proceeded to cite the Colony's latest architectural acquisition as visible evidence of the fact that the same spirit is still alive in our midst. It only needs a moment's thought to realise that such a magnificent and stately building as the Peninsula Hotel could never come into being but for the faith in the future progress of the Colony of those who conceived it. The formal opening of the Hotel marks the culmination of many years of earnest thought and labour, and its completion should serve as a tonic in these days, when trade is admittedly not what it might be, giving point to the faith of those who are convinced, as His Excellency so well put it, that the greatness of the Colony is in the future and not the past.

In remarking that visitors to the Colony are always impressed with the solidity and boldness of our buildings, Mr. Southern was stating a fact which most of us are apt to overlook. Living our lives in the more or less restricted confines of the Colony, we come to take so much for granted that we fail to realise the obvious. Newcomers and visitors, by their comments, help to bring us round occasionally to a recognition of the truth. The other day, for example, we heard a new arrival from Home remark that nowhere on the trip out East had he seen such fine and impressive buildings as Hongkong possesses. In recent years, there have been many notable additions to these structures, but it can with truth be said that the Peninsula Hotel outstrips all others, and it will serve to add further to the modern services which this Colony can offer to residents and transients alike. His Excellency made a good point when, in speaking of the past, he referred to the City Hall building. In these days, we are apt to regard this block as being out-of-date and ill-equipped, but it is well that tribute should be paid to the courage and confidence of the men of the past when, back in the early sixties, they conceived a building which at that time was far more imposing than the municipal buildings of many of the big cities of the Old Country. Even to-day, it is a really fine structure, needing not very extensive internal alterations to make it all we could wish it to be.

It was appropriate also that Mr. Southern should, in his speech, dilate on the steady growth of Kowloon and paint a bright and glowing picture of its future. With its docks, wharves, projected aerodrome, and its ever-increasing public service facilities, added to which we now have this truly wonderful hotel, there can be nothing but optimism regarding Kowloon's eventual destiny. Its ample water supply and its big, broad roads were commented upon by His Excellency, who also added a remark concerning its spacious playing fields. Much has admittedly been done in this latter connexion during recent years, but much more needs doing in the future if the growing community across the harbour is to be served as it should be. We have hopes, however, that the courageous spirit of which Mr. Southern so well spoke will continue to manifest itself, and that the Colony will go on from strength to strength, remaining a striking example of British enterprise and perseverance.

House of Lords Reform.

Lord Clarendon's speech on the reform of the constitution of the House of Lords, while going over old ground to some extent, contains points of great interest. The subject is one which has been brought up, debated and dropped, intermittently for the last seventeen years, many private members having evolved their own pet scheme for the solution of the difficulties, none succeeding in achieving a general agreement. Even Lord Birkenhead's brilliant intellect, and persuasive tongue failed to convince the Upper Chamber, though he is certain to be complimented in the future by the acceptance of the main principles laid down by him a year or two ago. Small wonder, then, that Lord Clarendon, in getting to work on this thorny problem, used Earl Birkenhead's main lines as the basis of the proposals submitted to the Lords on Tuesday. It is agreed that in present circumstances, the House of Lords is not an efficient Parliamentary body; that its numbers must be reduced to approximately 300; and that there should be some provision guaranteeing that the reconstituted body should be a kind of corps d'elite. The insuperable difficulty has been to satisfy the present Lords of Parliament and the political parties at the same time. Lord Clarendon suggested that 150 members of the reconstituted House should be elected by proportional representation by the whole body of Peers, and that 150 other persons should be nominated by the Crown in proportion to the parties in the House of Commons. A limited number of life Peers might also be appointed by the Crown. These, of course, would not have hereditary rank, and is to be commended as it would have the effect of bringing to the service of the State, men either too old or too busy to sit in the Commons, and who have no desire to hand on a peerage to their sons. Some men have little wish to saddle their children with what might eventually become a very real burden, thus many a man would be glad to sit in the Lords where he given an assurance that the title would end with his death. The nomination of Peers would also have the important and essential effect of giving the Labour Party a more reasonable contingent in the Upper Chamber. The proposals met with little encouragement from Lord Buckmaster, for the Liberals, and Lord Parmoor, for the Socialists, the latter drawing attention to the obvious anomaly that the Conservatives would not only overwhelmingly predominate among the 150 Peers elected by the House, but also among the remaining 150 by virtue of the present strength of the Conservatives in the Commons. Another somewhat revolutionary proposal was to the effect that Peers not elected to the Upper House should be eligible for the Commons. We cannot imagine much opposition to this. The matter was allowed to rest with a statement from the Lord Chancellor that there could be no chance of giving legislative effect to the proposals during the life of the present Parliament. If the Labour Party gains an ascendancy in the new House, the motion may be more acceptable.

"SHRIMPS" ON A LOCAL JUNK.

MAN IN CHARGE AND CARGO OF LIQUOR.

Three boatmen appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on charges of having in their possession 236 gallons of dutiable liquor, and of importing the liquor.

Defendants said that they were only folkies and were not responsible. Sergeant Hill said he stopped defendants' junk in Kowloon Bay. First defendant was in charge of the steering, while the other two were manning the oars. When questioned, first defendant said that the master had gone ashore. He said that the cargo in the hold was shrimps. Witness uncovered the hatches and found a number of jars containing wine. The boat was going in the direction of Lyceum.

His Worship dismissed the second charge, remarking that by the sergeant's own evidence the men were not importing the spirit. On the first charge, first defendant was convicted and fined $300. The other two defendants were cautioned, his Worship remarking that they were merely folkies. The first defendant, he said, was definitely in charge of the boat and as such the wine was in his possession.

BRANCH POLITICAL COUNCILS.

OPPOSITION TO NANKING'S DECISION.

A PEKING PROTEST.

Nanking, Dec. 12. Political feeling is again intensified in connexion with the National Government's decision to enforce the abolition of the Branch Political Councils.

With the arrival here this morning of Marshal Yen Hsi-shan, it is fairly certain that the question of the Branch Political Councils will come up for discussion.

Marshal Yen is Chairman of the Shansi Branch Political Council and also a member of the Peking Political Council, and perhaps it is more than a coincidence that yesterday the Nanking Government received a telegram from Mr. Chang Chi, Chairman of the Peking Political Council, urging that the Central Government should cancel its former fiat ordering the dissolution of the Councils.

While agreeing with the Government that during the present reconstruction period it is most important that politics in the country should be centralised, Mr. Chang Chi states that the Branch Coun-

Do you know that—

A former Chief Justice once expressed himself strongly against adjourning the Court for the Races?

This was in 1867, when Chief Justice Smalle objected to the business of the Court being interrupted in this manner, but eventually agreed to the jury deciding the point. The latter voted for the adjournment.

In supporting the proposal, the Attorney General cited an authority in the case of Derby Day at Home, when all business was suspended by common consent of the Crown and the people.

"Yes," said the Chief Justice, "but here we encroach upon the English habit by taking unlawful possession of three days."

These are most efficient governmental bodies in the administration of local affairs in Provinces which are remote from and which very often escape the attention of Nanking. Newspaper comments here and in Shanghai blame the Nanking decision for the abolition of the Councils as political intrigue of the Kuomintang "Leftist" wing.

Marshal Yen Hsi-shan is staying at the residence of General Chan Tui-yuan. He had conferences with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and Mr. Wu Han-min to-day. It is understood that he is to be formally installed in his new office as Minister of Interior to-morrow.

One of the most important matters in connexion with Marshal Yen Hsi-shan's arrival in Nanking is the coming session of the All-China Disarmament and Reconciliation Conference, the convocation of which was first contemplated shortly after the Nationalist entry into Peking. The Conference has been repeatedly postponed on account of the fact that it has been found impossible to get all the leaders to meet. Immediately upon Marshal Yen's arrival, a telegram was sent to General Li Chung-yen at Hankow requesting his early presence in Nanking.

DRESS REHEARSAL GIVES FINE PROMISE.

The final dress rehearsal of the Philharmonic Society's production of "Tom Jones" was held at the Theatre Royal last night and was seen by a large house, mainly composed of Service men.

The opera promises to be one of the best the Society has produced and it can be confidently said that a real treat is in store.

The production will begin at the Theatre Royal to-morrow night. Excellent booking is reported at Anderson's, particularly for the later nights. The fact should be stressed that the opera will not be presented after Saturday, December 22, whatever the demand, and the public would be well advised to take advantage of the shows earlier in the week and also the matinee which will be given next Wednesday at 4.30 p.m.

The Sports Club, King's Building, will be opened by His Excellency, the Officer Administering the Government, (the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G.) on Saturday, at noon.

As laymen, they had the great privilege of grousing at a parson, but persons had more reason to grouse at laymen. "I am not sure if a strike of clergy, headed by the bishops," he added, "would not be a very good thing. They should insist on being decently paid, and until they were, refuse to carry on any service or conduct weddings, baptisms, or funerals."

LOCAL BANKNOTE FORGERIES.

TWELVE CHINESE IN THE DOCK.

DETECTIVE NEGOTIATES WITH THE ACCUSED.

RINGLEADER ESCAPES.

One of the biggest seizures made by the police in recent times in connection with the uttering of forged banknotes was revealed at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Mr. H. Somerset Fitzroy prosecuted twelve Chinese on various charges arising out of an alleged conspiracy to utter forged Hongkong and Shanghai Bank $50 notes (old issue).

Originally, thirteen defendants were charged before the Magistrate, but since then the police had withdrawn the case against one man.

Mr. F. H. Loseby, of Messrs. Russ and Co., appeared for the first five of the twelve defendants; Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro represented the eighth man, and Mr. C. E. L. Grist represented the twelfth.

Mr. Fitzroy first outlined the charges against the accused and then told the story of how the arrests came to be made.

The Charges.

Against all the defendants, said Mr. Fitzroy, there was the general charge of conspiracy to commit a crime by uttering forged banknotes. No. 1 defendant was charged with being in possession of a pistol as well as thirteen plates which were found in his cubicle, these containing figures and marks of currency notes of the Central Bank of China, and there was material found, which forgery could be made. He was also charged with possession of certain papers which could be used for the production of the notes of the Central Bank of China. The man was also charged with being in possession of a printing press which was found in a cubicle occupied by him, in No. 19, Queen's Road East.

The second defendant was the wife of the first, explained Mr. Fitzroy. The third, fourth and fifth defendants lived at No. 19 Queen's Road East.

Mr. Fitzroy then went on the way that there was another charge against the first man, to the effect that he was aiding and abetting Chan Wing, who seemed to be the prime mover in the attempt to distribute forged notes in Hongkong.

Good Forgeries.

At this point, Mr. Fitzroy said that the forgeries were exceedingly good and to anyone unaccustomed to the handling of $50 Hongkong Bank notes it would be impossible to tell the difference. The enclosure in which the words "Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation" were printed, appeared to be a little longer, and the colour in the centre of the notes was darker.

At this stage, Mr. D'Almada said that the police had a number of the notes alleged to be forged and he asked that these, together with a number of genuine $50 notes, be placed before the Court. Mr. Loseby, supporting the application, said new genuine notes should be used when comparisons were made. He understood that the paper was said to be a little longer in the alleged forged notes, and expressed the opinion that possibly the printing had something to do with that.

Mr. Lindell directed that six new genuine $50 notes should be brought to the Court as he thought that number would be sufficient.

Mr. Fitzroy added that in this connexion an expert witness from the Bank would be called.

The second defendant, the wife of the first, said Mr. Fitzroy, was charged with being in possession of plates and other articles found in the cubicle occupied by her. The third, fourth and fifth men were charged with unlawful possession of a printing press, but, in fairness to them, Mr. Fitzroy mentioned that No. 1 claimed the press as his own.

Wife of Ringleader?

The sixth defendant, a woman described as the wife of Chan Wing, one of the prominent figures in the case, who was not before the Court, was charged with aiding and abetting in the uttering of the notes.

The sixth defendant, together with the seventh, actually told the police of the hiding place of one quantity of notes. The alleged counterfeiters were hidden under a pile of lime in an area where a number of old houses had been pulled down. They were wrapped in some Chinese newspapers and just "showed under" the timbers, quite open to the public gaze and yet unattractive enough to cause any curiosity. Nos. 6 and 7 were

IDENTIFYING A VEGETABLE.

DO THEY ANSWER TO THEIR NAMES?

AMUSING CASE TO-DAY.

The ownership of a basket of vegetables was disputed by two gardeners of Shamshui at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when one man charged the other with larceny.

Defendant denied the charge and said the vegetables belonged to him.

Sergeant Jessop, who prosecuted, intimated to Mr. E. W. Hamilton that his first witness would be the complainant, who could only give evidence of identification of the vegetables. The man's wife was the person who witnessed the actual theft.

His Worship: How is he going to identify the vegetables? Do they answer to their names?

Sergeant Jessop said that the gardens of the defendant and complainant adjoined each other.

His Worship: He's going to be a bold man who identifies a lettuce as his personal property.

His Worship remarked that he would rather the complainant's wife give evidence first.

The woman stated that she saw the defendant in her garden at 5 a.m. this morning stealing her vegetables.

After hearing the evidence, his Worship said that it was one person's word against the other and he could not convict. The defendant was discharged.

therefore charged with having possession of the notes.

No. 8 was charged with possession of one forged note.

No. 9 said Mr. Fitzroy, had since been discharged. The evidence against Nos. 10, 11 and 12 was not very strong at all, and beside the fact that they appeared to have been very familiar with Wing, there was nothing else against them.

No. 13 appeared to have tried to get rid of one of the notes and seemed to have failed. He was arrested on information given by some of those who were arrested earlier.

Coming to the facts of the case, Mr. Fitzroy said that the police became aware that certain notes were in existence and that attempts were made to utter them here.

Before proceeding further, the assistant Attorney General said that it was of the utmost importance that the actual people who gave the information to the police should not go before the public, if possible, because it was very difficult in the suppression of crime to get people to go to the police with information if their names were to go before the public. He suggested that the solicitors and the people concerned were the only people who should know anything about the people who gave the information.

To Replace Treasury Loss?

Continuing, Mr. Fitzroy said that in the middle of November, the police became aware of the forgeries and they instructed a Chinese detective, No. 630, to get into touch with people who were trying to put them on the market.

The detective managed to get into touch with No. 1 defendant. They began to discuss how many notes could be procured, and No. 1 said he was prepared to produce the "modest quantity" of $250,000.

Mr. Lindell:—He was willing to replace the Treasury Loss? (Laughter).

Mr. Fitzroy smilingly commented that unfortunately accused did not try to pass them on to Mr. Black or Mr. Messer. It was not so much patriotism on the part of the first defendant, after all, as he asked a small cash for it. For every $50 note produced he wanted $25 in genuine money.

The conversation took place on November 14 and on the following day the detective gave No. 1 $30 as a sign of good faith.

They then got into negotiations and the detective hinted that he would want about $30,000 worth of notes.

Mr. Fitzroy mentioned that the $30 "earnest" was passed to the defendant somewhere on the road. Apparently No. 7 defendant was shadowing both the men as they were negotiating and as the money was passed from the detective to No. 1, No. 7 crept up "taking care to see that No. 1 did not get away with anything."

The next day, the detective was taken to the third floor of No. 114 Des Voeux Road Central, where he was introduced to the man Chan Wing.

The detective tried to arrange to carry on negotiations in another place, a shop. A good deal of discussion followed, Chan Wing and party having a good look at the shop. Apparently Chan Wing did not trust the shop, and the result was that business was continued at No. 114, Des Voeux Road Central.

Whenever the detective went to No. 114, Des Voeux Road Central, (Continued on Page 8.)

MUSICAL JOTTINGS.

"Tom Jones"—The Hongkong Musical Society—To-night's Musicals.

[BY "ALLEGRO."]

To-morrow the Philharmonic Society's production of "Tom Jones" commences at the Theatre Royal. Unfortunately for the performers, to whom a bumper house on the first night means everything, there are two counter-attractions which have affected the "Tom Jones" bookings, and I hope that there will be some who will "roll up" at the last moment to give the show a good start-off. A glance at the booking for the seven nights, which shows the first Saturday and the last two performances to be the most popular, reveals the same tendency on the part of the public that was noticeable in "Merrie England" last Winter: people then deferred their booking until there had been two or three performances, came in with a rush to obtain seats at the last four and were disappointed to find no more seats available. I am not prepared to say that the experience will be repeated in the case of "Tom Jones," but it might be, and members of the public who have not yet booked would do well to secure seats for Monday or Tuesday next without delaying too long.

"Tom Jones" is a comic opera of considerable length, and although parts of it have been cut out by the producer, it is necessary to start the performances at 9 p.m. sharp, and to request the audiences to refrain from demanding encores. It is up to the public to make efforts to be in their seats punctually, as nothing is more disconcerting during a song or a dialogue than the constant procession of late-comers who seem to find it difficult to get to the theatre even by 9.30. Peak residents, for instance, should remember that they cannot possibly find enough accommodation on the 8.45 car, and those that can manage it might make an effort to catch the 8.30 to relieve the congestion. It is probably a waste of time to put forward this suggestion, but it may catch the eye of one or two sympathetic souls who would hate to be interrupted themselves.

A short time ago notices were sent to all the people in the Colony who were believed to be music-lovers, asking whether they would like to become members of the Hongkong Musical Society, a step which involved no financial contribution on their part but merely the sending-in of their names and addresses in order that advance personal notices of forthcoming first-class concerts might be sent to them, to help in securing good audiences for the artists who visit us. In addition to these intimations, which were made by post, a letter from the Secretary appeared in all the local papers, asking for the names of those interested and for the names of any musical friends of intending members, so that in this way all the music-lovers in the Colony might be reached.

A few facts concerning the progress of the Society might be of interest. Originally, notices were sent to 85 addresses, at which at least one and in many cases two

TEN-MONTHS-OLD MURDER.

TWO YOUNG CHINESE IN THE DOCK TO-DAY.

TELL-TALE JEWELLERY

A murder which occurred in the early part of this year had its sequel at the Central Police Court this morning, when, before Mr. R. E. Lindell, Leong Fung and Kam Lau-kwai, both 19 years of age and employed as blacksmiths, living at 29, Wing Fung Street, were charged with the murder of Fung Man-chu.

The affair to which the present case relates, received considerable attention from the Chinese press at the time. Briefly, the facts are that a Chinese youth, son of the manager of a well-known local perfumery, was fatally stabbed while in the company of an attractive-looking girl in a lonely part of Kennedy Road on the evening of February 22.

At the subsequent Coroner's enquiry, it was stated that the girl was married to a man in Singapore, but that before her marriage, she was on intimate terms of friendship with the deceased. The jury returned a verdict of "Wilful Murder" against a person or persons unknown.

The circumstances which led to the arrest of the two young men now charged with being the perpetrators of the murder, were briefly indicated by a police official this morning in reply to a query from the Magistrate.

His Worship asked how it came about that the arrests were made after the lapse of so many months, and Inspector Lane, who is in charge of the case, said it was partly due to information and partly due to the recovery of certain pieces of jewellery in a pawnshop, including one which was supposed to be stolen in the robbery that accompanied the murder. The lady concerned in the case, continued the Inspector, was now in Singapore and a cable had been sent to her requesting her presence for these proceedings.

Asked by his Worship if she would be able to identify either of the accused, Inspector Lane said that in her statement there was a vague description of the men which might be useful. A week's formal remand was given.

LOAN ASSOCIATION DISPUTE.

QUESTION OF TRANSFER OF SHARE RAISED.

JUDGE'S QUERIES.

An important case affecting Money Loan Associations, in which the issue to be decided is whether a member can transfer his share without the consent of the rest of the members, was resumed in the Summary Court this morning before Mr. Justice Jacka, after being adjourned from the early part of last month.

The plaintiff is Fan Ngol-nam, No. 143, Connaught Road West, with whom seven co-members are joined as plaintiffs. The defendants are the Asia Cafe, formerly the Seck Yuen Cafe, and Kwan Yun-fong, the managing partner, Nos. 251 and 253, Des Voeux Road Central; and the Tung Yuen Chi Tin Cafe, 368, Queen's Road Central. Plaintiffs are claiming the sum of $800 being eight monthly subscriptions due to the Association.

Mr. C. A. S. Russ is appearing for the plaintiffs and Mr. F. X. D'Almada is for the second defendant.

According to the plaintiffs, the defendants made the highest bid and obtained the use of the money but failed to pay back monthly instalments as they should have done.

The defence is that the defendant's share was transferred to another firm which had gone bankrupt, the transfer being effected with the consent of the head of the Association.

No Transfers.

The manager of the Tak Yu Tea House, No. 302 Shanghai St., Mongkok, giving evidence this morning, stated that he had been a member of many such Associations but had never heard of anybody transferring their liabilities.

Witness further said that such a transfer could not be put through because the members would not trust the transferees. The members knew and trusted each other. He had never heard of any transfer in the present case.

Replying to Mr. D'Almada, witness said that in the event of a member absconding, the other members would look to the head of the Association for the full amount owing.

When asked by his Lordship as to what the members would do in the event of the head absconding, witness replied:—"We would leave that alone, because we would have no head to look to."

Another Question.

His Lordship asked what would happen if a member wanted to get out of an Association for good, either for business reasons or because he was going away.

Witness replied that as he had never heard of such a case, he could not say. The only thing such a member could do would be to bid the highest rate of interest for a loan, obtain the loan in that way and deduct from it such instalments as were required and pay it back to the head. Such a member could bring in another man to take his place, but the members would not be satisfied if the head of the Association allowed that by himself, without the consent of the members.

Mr. D'Almada submitted that he had no case to answer, but his Lordship expressed himself as being of the opposite opinion, with the result that the defendant was called to give evidence.

The defendant stated that he had had one share in the Association, of which the first contribution was paid by the Seck Yuen Cafe, but the share was then transferred to the Mo Yee. Fan Ngol-nam himself suggested the transfer, saying that the Mo Yee was in need of money. Witness further said that Fan was a shareholder of the Mo Yee as was also witness himself.

Judgment was reserved.

Shameen D.	13 16 50 16
Shameen E.	13 4 61 4

It will be noticed that four of the teams have not yet fulfilled their engagements; however, even if these should be played off at a later date, they will not affect the first five places.

The matches commenced on the 15th September and each team has met every other team once, playing each time three singles and two doubles.

Right up to the very last the first place was in doubt and it was only on the last day of the fixtures, on Saturday, that the Lingnam C. definitely gained first place, very closely followed by the Canton Dragons and the Japanese A. As an example of the closeness of the results it is curious to note that the Canton Dragons beat the Japanese A. and lost to the Lingnam C., whereas the Japanese A. beat the Lingnam C. after being defeated by the Canton Dragons.

On Saturday next, the 15th, the winning team, the Lingnam C. will be "At Home" to all the other teams and their friends on the courts of the Canton Citizen's Athletic Association in the First Public Park, and exhibition matches will be played between the Lingnam C. and The Rest, after which the beautiful cup given by the British-American Tobacco Company (China), Limited, will be presented to the Lingnam C. by Madame Li Chai-sun and small medals will be presented to each individual member of the team.

R.A.'S GOOD WIN OVER K.O.S.B.

At Snookpoo yesterday afternoon, the Royal Artillery provided a surprise when they defeated the K.O.S.B. in the First Division of the League by one goal to nil.

There was no score at half-time, although the Borderers had many opportunities in the first half. In the second, there was a keen tussle, and eventually Hill scored a fine goal after a pass from Leach, who figured prominently throughout the game. Mr. F. Smith was the referee, and amongst the spectators was H.B. Major General Luard.

Wireless Broadcast.

A short service was conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Queen performed the actual unveiling, saying "To the Glory of God and in honour of these brave men, I unveil this Memorial on behalf of those for whom they died."

The signal "We will not forget" was hoisted at the flagstaff. The ceremony was broadcast and the Queen's voice was heard on the wireless for the first time in the history of broadcasting.

Thanks of the Princess.

The British representatives at Paris, Rome and Bern have been instructed to convey to the Governments to which they are accredited, an expression of the Princess of Wales' warm appreciation of the invaluable assistance afforded by them to His Royal Highness in expediting his journey through France, Italy and Switzerland, and of the admirable organisation of the arrangements made for his convenience, safety and comfort.

The Prince has also expressed the desire that his sincere thanks should be conveyed to the railway staff and officials who were instrumental in carrying out these arrangements.

An expression has also been added of the warmest thanks of the British Government for the assistance so freely and readily given.

Prince George.

It was officially announced today that Prince George, the King's youngest son, who is in the Navy, is coming home. He left Bermuda in the Cunard liner, Berengaria, which sails for England on Friday. The Berengaria is due at Southampton on December 20th, which is Prince George's birthday. He will be twenty-six.

LOCAL BANKNOTE FORGERIES.

he found Nos. 10, 11 and 12 there, as well as the sixth defendant, Chan Wing's wife.

After a discussion, the detective agreed, said Mr. Fitzroy, to buy $4,000 worth from Chan Wing for $2,000. This did not come through, as Chan Wing on that occasion was informed that the police were watching the house and in fact there were two European policemen on the road. Mr. Fitzroy added that the information was correct and Chan Wing and the detective agreed to move off.

The role which the detective was playing was that of a buyer who could find a ready market for the notes in Amoy, Foochow and Annam.

After this, the police apparently got anxious, so they raided No. 19, Queen's Road East. The latter address came to the notice of the police through their shadowing No. 1 defendant. After the detective had interviewed No. 1, the latter's movements were shadowed by another detective who eventually established that he lived at 19, Queen's Road East. No. 1 had been seen, by detectives who were shadowing him, to have waited on one occasion, for about half an hour, on the Yau-mat Ferry Wharf, at the end of which time he was met by Nos. 3 and 4 and, after a short "confab" they had parted. This seemed to point to the theory that the notes were procured from a source outside the Colony.

During the raid, the first five defendants were arrested. The revolver, printing paraphernalia and other seizures were made. There were 13 plates on which were engravings resembling the design of the $10 notes of the Central Bank of China.

Hurried Escape.

The police next went to No. 114, Des Voeux Road, where they found Nos. 8 and 9, but they did not get Chan Wing. The police were taken to a house in Lamont Lane where Chan Wing was supposed to live. They found his wife there, but Chan Wing managed to give them the slip and appeared to have left in a hurry. A coat of Chan Wing's hanging on a peg was still warm.

The sixth and seventh defendants, as mentioned previously, showed the police where the alleged forged notes were hidden. Previous to that, the police had only seized one forged note, which was found on the eighth defen-

PROPOSED CHINESE FLIGHTS.

POSSIBLE TRIP TO GREAT BRITAIN.

ALSO TO HONOLULU.

As a result of the keen interest which is now being evinced by Chinese in aviation, the North-China Daily News learns from very reliable sources that three important flights are contemplated, two of which will be by accomplished Chinese aviators and the other by the young scion of a wealthy Chinese family who has never yet been in the air.

The first of these, which is expected to bear fruit in the very near future, is a proposed flight by a Cantonese aviator who contemplates flying from China to Great Britain. It is not known when he will leave or what course he proposes to follow, but it has been whispered that one of the men who took part in the Spirit of Canton flight around China will be a member of his party.

The second is a contemplated flight from Canton to Honolulu, via the Philippine Islands and Samoa. No details of this are available.

The third is the one proposed by the young man who has not yet had any flying experience. This man is thinking of flying to and around Australia. His flight, roughly, will be from Shanghai to Canton, then to the Philippine Islands, from there to Timor, and then on to Port Darwin. From there he proposes to follow the coast until his circular trip around Australia is completed. Should his flight be a success, he proposes, if possible, to fly to New Zealand and then to Honolulu.

CHINESE BRIDE MURDER.

was very unusual and it was necessary for the Court to ascertain whether or not the appellant was represented by learned counsel.

Mr. Jackson then left the Bar, and, accompanied by Miao, passed to a private room.

When Mr. Jackson returned to Court he said that Miao was obsessed with the feeling that it was of paramount importance to him that he should make his own appeal. As a result he (Mr. Jackson) could only say that he was now no longer instructed in the appeal.

Miao then went into the first row of the jury box. He asked permission to call new witnesses, who on June 19 were within half a mile of the spot where the body of his wife was found. This was granted.

Mr. David Todd, of Fleetwood, stated that on June 19, while at Boulderstone, he saw a foreign-looking man hurrying away from there. The man had no hat. The time was about 4.30 p.m.

Mrs. Alice Carter Bell, of Golders Green, said that she saw two Orientals in the vicinity of Boulderstone on June 19 between 3.30 and 4.30 p.m.

Lengthy Address.

Miao then addressed the Court for three hours and a half. He apologised for his ignorance of the procedure, saying that that was the first time he had been in England. He complained that he had had no chance of cross-examining or explaining. He had been arrested because his words had been misunderstood.

His wife, he said, had gone out alone to get some medicine as he was in bed with a cough. Two Orientals had followed himself and his wife from Glasgow. There was, he declared, no sign of a struggle where his wife's body was found, which indicated that it had been brought from one spot to another. Nor was his own face scratched nor clothes torn, which would have been the case had he committed the murder, for there would have been a struggle. Her pearl necklace and money were missing, and these were the things which the murderers were looking for.

Miao, commenting on the fact that reference had been made to his wife's property, said that it was a Chinese custom and law 5,000 years old that immediately a woman was married her property went to her husband and belonged to him while she lived. When, however, she died he had no further claim upon it.

"Then, why (he asked), should I murder my wife for money or jewellery when on her death it went from me?"

The man whom Mr. D'Almeida represented.

Evidence was taken, Sergeant Whant being the first witness called.

The case is proceeding as we go to press.

SOMERSET CRIME.

MAN KILLS GIRL AND THEN COMMITTS SUICIDE.

London, Nov. 10.

A mother's encounter on a staircase with an armed man, and her futile attempt to save the life of her young daughter, who was shot after dashing from her bedroom, as she attempted to escape from the house, were incidents of a tragedy which occurred early yesterday morning at the little Somerset village of Hembridge, about four miles from Shepton Mallet.

The distressing affair resulted in two deaths, for after mortally wounding the girl, her assailant inflicted a fatal wound upon himself, dying some hours later.

The victims are Miss Gladys Martin, seventeen, and Stanley George Kingston, Miss Martin's father is employed by Mr. Tabor, a farmer, and Kingston was a young farmer who worked with his father at Hembridge Mill Farm.

The man, who was unmarried, and the girl were friends, but nothing more, and the reason for the crime is not clear.

About a quarter past 6 o'clock in the morning Mrs. Martin found Kingston ascending the staircase of her cottage with a double-barrelled gun in his hands, and tried in vain to stop him. He pushed forward and when the girl ran past him he turned and shot her twice, and she fell just inside the door.

Kingston went off and shot himself. He was badly shell-shocked in the war, in which he served in the Devon Regiment and Tank Corps. He was several times blown up and his health was shattered. His brother Cecil stated yesterday he had on two occasions forcibly prevented him from jumping out of the bedroom window.

REPARATION BONDS.

AMERICA SUSPICIOUS OF PROPOSED ISSUE.

Washington, Nov. 10.

While the New York papers report M. Polcare's speech of yesterday at length none of them make editorial comment upon it, nor do any other newspapers in this part of the country. Evidently they are waiting for a lead from official quarters which so far is not forthcoming, as the Treasury withholds comment and the few public men now in Washington are equally reticent.

The public is suspicious of America being inveigled into a settlement by being induced to take the bonds which will be floated to settle reparations, and is afraid that an attempt would follow to reopen the debt settlements, as M. Polcare suggested. It will be difficult to induce Congress to make any revision of the debt settlements, as the American sentiment is that foreign creditors have been very leniently dealt with, and there is no reason why they should expect any further concessions.

Mr. Coolidge opposes it, and Mr. Hoover showed during the French debt negotiations that the United States had gone to the limit of concessions, and the only thing for France was to pay the money she owed. Both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover have frequently referred to the sacrifices made by America, and declared that any further abatement of debts would be virtually imposing the debts upon the American people, who have already been heavily over-taxed for the costs of the war.

"MY POOR HEAD!"

Have You Tried The Tonic Method of Treatment With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?

There are few ailments that cause more genuine misery than nerves, neuralgia, or sick headaches. Light and noise increase the pain; food is unthought of, for it only adds to the distress. When the attack is on there is little to be done until it passes away. This may mean hours, or it may mean days. Nearly every victim of headaches suffers from thin blood, also weak nerves, the latter being the result of the former. The most successful treatment, therefore, for headaches is a remedy that will rebuild the blood so that it can nourish the starved nerves.

This process of strengthening thin blood and weak nerves is being accomplished on all sides by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills contain the elements that make new blood; and as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as anaemia, digestive disorder, neuralgia, and neurasthenia or nervous breakdown.

If you are not fit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will help you to health. Get a supply now from any chemist, or post free, one bottle for $1.50 6 bottles for $8 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, King's Road, Shanghai.

BOMBS BEFORE DAWN.

STATUES DAMAGED IN DUBLIN.

Dublin, Nov. 11.

The equestrian statue of King William III. in College Green, Dublin, was rather extensively damaged by high explosives this morning.

Simultaneously an attempt was made to blow up the statue of King George II. in St. Stephen's Green, but here the damage was not great. The outrages occurred about 5 o'clock, before dawn, and the perpetrators in both cases made good their escape.

The College Green affair was a particularly daring one, as it occurred in the heart of the city close to the C.I.D. headquarters and almost within sight of the military guard at the Bank of Ireland.

The men engaged approached a side street, and scaling the low railings surrounding the statue, climbed the pedestal. They then placed a small land mine at the base of the statue itself, and hurriedly decamped.

It is believed that they made their escape in a motor-car which was in waiting in a side street. The mine was apparently fixed with a time fuse.

Centre of City Shaken.

The first intimation that anything was amiss was the reverberating roar of the explosion, which shook the centre of the city. Police and detectives ran to the scene, and the military guard at the bank immediately turned out.

They found large portions of masonry dislodged from the pedestal and scattered over the thoroughfare, while a portion of the hind leg of King William's horse was blown to pieces. The main portion of the statue, though damaged, remained standing. The base had, however, been seriously weakened.

Business houses in the vicinity also suffered, many windows being blown in by the force of the explosion. In College Green post office, opposite the statue, every window on the ground floor was smashed, and the windows in the upper floors fared little better. Fortunately nobody was injured.

Scarcely had the echoes of the first explosion died away when there came another thunderous boom from the direction of St. Stephen's Green, where the King George II. statue in the public park had been the object of attack.

As in College Green, the explosion blew large pieces of masonry out of the pedestal, but here the statue itself escaped undamaged.

An attempt was also made to blow up a fountain in Herbert Park, Ballsbridge, erected to commemorate the visit of King Edward VII. to open the International Exhibition. The damage was comparatively slight.

If the explosions were intended to intimidate those participating in the Armistice Day celebrations, they did not succeed in achieving their object, for in spite of heavy rain there was a big gathering of ex-service men and their friends, who marched to Phoenix Park, where the Two Minutes Silence was observed with fitting solemnity in the temporary Cenotaph.

There was an impressive scene when the great concourse bared their heads, heedless of the rain, to pay their tributes of respect to the dead. Scores of beautiful wreaths were laid at the foot of the Cenotaph. Poppies were extensively worn, and the sellers did a brisk business.

After the ceremony the various contingents marched back to the city. A few scuffles occurred, but except for an incident in Abbey-street where one of a number of young men who attempted to seize a Union Jack from the processionists was rather seriously injured and had to be taken to hospital there was no grave disturbance.

LETTER GOLF.

It's easy to put this BIRD in its CAGE.

B	I	R	D
C	A	G	E

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to Hen, in three strokes, COW, HOW HEW HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed. One solution is printed on another page.

FRIENDLY CRICKET.

MILITARY TEAMS IN OPPOSITION AT SOOKUMPOO.

The R.A.S.C. replied with 90, Major Langmaid, being top scorer with 17 runs. Mr. "Extra" was the next highest scorer with 10, and the only other batsman to reach double figures was Q.M.S. Glenny. Sapper Walters took 3 wickets, giving away only 1 run, and the next most successful bowler was S. M. Osborne with 3 wickets for 15.

250 SCOTS GUARDS "IN ACTION."

BLAZE AT LONDON
BARRACKS.

London, Nov. 8.

About 250 men of the Scots Guards fought a fire which broke out yesterday afternoon in the basement of the forage stores at Knightsbridge Barracks and destroyed large quantities of hay and straw.

The basement runs the whole length of the barracks. The early and vigorous steps taken by the troops, to quell the outbreak prevented more serious damage being done.

Members of the Quartermaster's staff, on going to the stores about 2.30 p.m., saw clouds of smoke issuing from below. While some ran for sand and water buckets, a bugler sounded the fire alarm. As the fire call rang out the barracks sprang into activity. The picket on duty fell in with fixed bayonets, the Guard turned out, troops not on duty paraded as for fire drill, grooms rushed to the horses, and women and children in the married quarters began to leave.

A call was sent to the fire brigade. Meanwhile the duty picket had run out the barrack hoses and began to pour water into the basement. Many of the troops went on parade in mufti, having dressed for "walking out." All walking-out leave was cancelled until the fire had been subdued.

With the arrival of the fire engines, the work of fighting the flames was taken in charge by the fire brigade officers, while numbers of Guardsmen were told off to assist. About a dozen fire engines pumped water into the blazing forage for nearly an hour before it was possible for firemen to enter the basement. Squads of soldiers were formed up at the trap-doors and hauled up the smouldering bales of hay and sacks of oats passed up by the firemen.

Firemen's Difficulties.

The smoke made work in the basement trying, and the firemen had constantly to be relieved. Fortunately the roof of the basement is of concrete, which fact prevented the flames from bursting through to the floors above. Large quantities of valuable equipment were, however, removed by soldiers as a precautionary measure.

The fire was extinguished within an hour. The flames at one time came through the basement windows, and could be seen from Knightsbridge-road. All traffic was diverted via Brompton-road.

Over 100 bales of hay and straw were ruined by fire or water, together with about two dozen bags of oats.

G.B.S. ON AMATEUR ACTRESSES.

TRYING TO IMITATE MISS GLADYS COOPER.

Into a discussion as to whether dramatic societies should pay a fixed fee or be charged on a sliding scale for the performance of plays, Mr. George Bernard Shaw has intervened in characteristic fashion.

A strong movement is on foot to extend professional terms—which range from 2½ per cent, to 10 per cent, of the gross takings—to amateurs. Mr. Shaw, in a letter to the "Amateur Stage," says:—

My terms to amateurs are the standard terms which have been established for a century: five guineas for a full length play.

The mistake has arisen through the loose habit of assuming that every performance which is outside the routine of the London theatres and the provincial circuits is an amateur one.

Bodies of players have sprung up with just as much right to professional terms as the company at Drury Lane.

Unprofessional performances are in a distinct class. Ladies and gentlemen amuse themselves by trying to do what they have seen Miss Gladys Cooper and Sir Gerald du Maurier do. They get up dramatic performances and give the profits, if any, to some charity to excuse a weakness of which they are slightly ashamed.

"A proposal to treat them as professionals would wound them deeply," adds Mr. Shaw. "To them all considerate authors say, 'Five guineas, please.'"

"Rub It In" for ACHES & PAINS

To remove stiffness in muscles or joints—to relieve sprains, swellings and strains—to stop sharp twinges of rheumatism, sciatica, or pains in the back and chest, use Zam-Buk as an embrocation—"Rub It In."

This great balm contains rare herbal essences so refined that they are absorbed naturally into the tissues. Zam-Buk quickly drives out poison and pain; it removes inflammation and soreness in a wonderful way.

Rheumatism. "I suffered terribly from rheumatism," writes Mr. M. A. Hussein, of Bate Huk's Lane, Ballymore, P.O. Galway. "Although I had medical treatment for over six months, my condition failed to improve. Zam-Buk, however, rubbed into my aching limbs, soon drove out all pain and banished the trouble completely."

Sprained Ankle. "When I severely sprained my ankle the doctor prescribed Zam-Buk," writes Miss S. J. Croker, of St. Michael's, Grand St., N.Y. "He told me I would have saved much worry and expense if I had used Zam-Buk at first. Now I keep Zam-Buk handy and depend upon it for all injuries and skin troubles."

A few moments' massage with Zam-Buk, twice a day, will remove almost any pain.

SEATTLE is over 500 miles nearer to Yokohama than any other Pacific Coast port. By the "established trade route" via Honolulu, Seattle is nearly 1,500 miles nearer.

The difference in time is proportionate—running from a day to a week, depending upon the speed of vessel. The same is relatively true of Kobe, Shanghai, Hongkong and Manila.

The saving in time effected by shipping via Seattle means quicker deliveries, less "in transit" time and proportionate savings in insurance and interest charges. Are YOU enjoying these advantages?

INCORPORATION.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PROPOSAL.

A meeting of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce is to be held on Friday, for the purpose of taking preliminary steps towards obtaining incorporation under Hongkong Companies Ordinances.

In this connexion the Secretary of the Chamber has sent a circular to all members calling attention to the fact that many Chambers of Commerce are incorporated under Company Law, the object being to limit the liability of members with regard to any claim that may be made against the Chamber. Members of an unincorporated Society are liable to an unlimited extent; a creditor can take action against any member he thinks most likely to be able to pay him.

Legal advice has been obtained and it has been strongly recommended to take measures for the incorporation of the Chamber under the Companies Ordinances 1911-1925.

The preliminary steps have accordingly been taken and a Draft Memorandum and Articles of Association prepared under legal advice. A copy is available for inspection at the office of the Chamber. The Committee has been in communication with the leading incorporated Chambers of Commerce in England, including London, Liverpool, Manchester and Birmingham, and all that is considered best has been taken from their Memoranda and Articles of Association and incorporated in those suggested for adoption by this Chamber.

The next steps are simple. It will be necessary to hold a meeting formally winding up the present Association and appointing Liquidators for that purpose. At the same meeting a resolution will be proposed that a Company be

ALLEGED PLOT.

FEARS FOR THE SAFETY OF MR. HOOVER.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 12. The police announce the discovery of a plot against Mr. Hoover, details of which have not, up to the present, been disclosed.

Later. The authorities have unearthed what is believed to be a plot against the life of Mr. Hoover. The police, who during the past few days have been rounding up persons believed to be hostile to the United States, raided a house in which they discovered a number of bombs, pistols and a quantity of ammunition, also a map of the railway system. Two men were arrested.

The police are of opinion that plotters intended to place bombs on the railway line before the arrival of Mr. Hoover on Thursday. — Reuter's American Service.

formed, limited by guarantee, named "The Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce" and registered under the Hongkong Companies Ordinances. It will be arranged that the new organization comes into being on the first day of January, 1929. To simplify matters, one of the Articles of Association to be adopted reads:—"All persons and firms who immediately prior to the date of these Articles were members of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce are from the date hereof members of the Chamber under these Articles."

ELECTRIC MOTOR.

THEFT OF CHINA LIGHT AND POWER PROPERTY.

An electric motor, belonging to the China Light and Power Co., Ltd., was produced at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday, when two Chinese women were charged with receiving the article which had been installed at No. 149, Nam Chong Street, Shamshuipo.

Mr. Hing-shing Lo appeared for the two defendants and pleaded not guilty to both charges. Sergeant Brittain informed the Magistrate that the motor had been hired from the China Light and Power Co., Ltd., by the Min Sang shop of No. 149, Nam Chong Street. On November 1, the firm went bankrupt and the master and foks of the shop absconded, leaving a debt due to one of the defendants' husband to the amount of $187.50.

The two defendants later took the motor from the shop and left it at their house at No. 135, Nam Chong Street for a short time, afterwards taking it to Gap Shek Mei where they buried it.

When the loss was reported on enquiries were made and Sub-Inspector Hoare visited No. 135, Nam Chong Street and later recovered the motor at Gap Shek Mei.

Mr. A. C. Tinson proved that the motor belonged to the China Light and Power Co., Ltd., informing his Worship that it had been hired in March, 1928. On November 30, witness visited No. 149, Nam Chong Street and found the occupants had gone. The following day when the workman from the Company went to remove the motor, it was found to have already been taken away.

Evidence was given by a foki of the husband of one of the defendants, to the effect that the motor was seen in the defendants' possession. The case was adjourned till Saturday.

SOUTH AMERICAN FRICTION.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES.

Washington, Dec. 12. The Bolivian delegation has withdrawn from the special committee of the Pan-American Congress seeking to conciliate Paraguay and Bolivia on the ground that Paraguay has not yet made suitable reparation for the alleged invasion of Bolivian territory. The Bolivian Legation announces that the Government has taken precautionary measures which are indispensable in view of the existing situation but have not mobilized the reserves. — Reuter's American Service.

CHINA AND BRITAIN.

AGREEMENT ON TARIFFS.

Nanking, Dec. 12. It is reported by reliable sources that an agreement on tariff questions, and both delegates are now working on a draft treaty, which it is expected will be similar to the Sino-American one, except that the British want more specific and explicit wording. — Reuter.

HARBOURING CHARGE.

WOMAN WHO JUMPED INTO WATER IN COURT.

A Chinese woman who attempted to escape from custody by jumping into the harbour while the launch was on its way to Hongkong was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday afternoon with receiving a quantity of jewellery which had been stolen by a small girl and with harbouring the girl without the consent of her parents or guardians.

The girl, who was living with her grandmother at No. 161, Reclamation Street, first floor, disappeared on December 4 and at the same time several articles of jewellery were missed. A report was made to the Police and later the girl was found living with the defendant, who had rented a cubicle for her at No. 353, Shanghai Street. In the defendant's possession were found some of the jewellery.

During the hearing of the evidence, the defendant asked permission to be provided with a seat as she was not feeling well.

His Worship: She jumped into the harbour or something didn't she?

Sergeant Mottram: Yes, your Worship. The defendant was allowed to sit down during the hearing.

After hearing the evidence his Worship convicted the defendant and passed sentence of six months' imprisonment.

The girl, who pleaded guilty, at a previous hearing to a charge of larceny of the jewellery, was reprimanded by his Worship.

Another Case.

In his judgment in the case in which an elderly woman was charged with harbouring a married girl, whom she had brought from Hongkong to find work, Mr. Hamilton registered a conviction and passed sentence of four months' hard labour.

MACAO WHARF.

COMPLETED AT A COST OF $120,000.

Work has been completed on the first wharf to be built in the new port of Macao. This work which cost about $120,000 is an excellent piece of engineering, and when the shore approaches are finished this pier will be much in demand by vessels making use of the port.

From the wharf a fine road runs along the shore, connecting with the main business centre of the town, and northwards past the newly-projected Naval Yard and further along to the Race Course and then through the Barrier Gate into Chinese territory on to the city of Shekhi and the important towns en route, and later, possibly, on to Canton, via Kowloon, Chang Chuen, etc.

THE SHASI AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

GOES ON ROCKS UP YANGTZE.

MAY REMAIN AGROUND UNTIL THE SPRING.

NAVAL GUARD ABOARD

Shanghai, Dec. 8.

The China Navigation str. Shasi is on the rocks at a point about one mile below Split Hill which is situated below Hankow, and is in a very serious predicament.

A British man-of-war and the C. N. S. Wenchow are standing by the Shasi which apparently struck the rocks during the night of Monday. Reports are to the effect that she is badly holed and that her forepeak is flooded.

The British Naval Commander wireless to the effect the vessel will require salvage operations beyond gunboat capacity. Salvage tugs accordingly have been sent from Hankow and the work of salvage is now proceeding.

Passengers Taken Off.

In view of the exceedingly strong current and the general conditions the work is extremely hazardous and it is not known at present whether it will be possible to refloat the vessel or not. All passengers have been taken off on to the str. Wenchow and will proceed to Hankow in that steamer. Those booked for Ichang are Messrs. F. Lloyd and R. Mac Farlane, Misses Pirie, Scott and Vincent. Mr. C. W. Knott is a passenger for Hankow.

The str. Wenchow has placed six of her armed naval guards on board the vessel and six more guards are proceeding up river from Kiangling—three to be placed in the Shantung (also aground) and three in the Shasi. Due to this disposition of guards, other vessels proceeding up river will not be fully provided with guards.

The Shasi left Shanghai at daylight on Friday last on a voyage to Ichang via Hankow and other river ports and, it will be remembered, it was this vessel which was pirated a few weeks ago soon after leaving Hankow. The pirates subsequently were captured and tried.

Salvage Difficulties.

Latest reports are that the Shasi will in all probability spend the winter on a ledge of rocks situated at a point about one mile below Split Hill in the Yangtze below Hankow. The water in the river is falling and this naturally increased the difficulties of those engaged in the work of salvage but as soon as it was realized that the vessel was firmly ensconced on a ledge of rock in a more or less comfortable position, it was agreed that the far better plan would be to shore her up, effect temporary repairs to her forepart and leave the ship until the river rises.

As arrangements now are, she will remain in the position she now is in until about next March when the high water will float her and the temporary repairs effected will enable her to proceed down river to dry dock.

Skeleton Crew.

As ever, sampan men, etc. but in reality nothing but pirates, flocked towards the vessel when her distress was noted. A British man-of-war was, however, in the vicinity together with the C. N. S. Wenchow with armed naval guards on board. These latter, together with others sent up from Nanking, are now on the Shasi and the company is not at all anxious as to the fate of the vessel. A skeleton crew has been provided and she will be visited from time to time with supplies and the guards will be relieved and replaced as necessary.

Should extraordinary high water make itself evident within the next day or two, it is possible that a further attempt will be made to dislodge the vessel but such a possibility is remote.

WITHOUT AUTHORITY.

FINES FOR BUILDING IN YARD.

For failing to comply with a magistrate's order requiring him to dismantle an illegal structure in the yard of No. 288, Shanghai Street, the owner was fined $100 by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. The tenant who built the structure was fined $50. Orders were made in both cases for the erection to be removed within fourteen days.

MR. TOKONAMI IN NANKING.

A TWO-HOUR PARLEY WITH CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

PROBLEMS TOUCHED.

Nanking, Dec. 12.

Mr. Tokonami, the Japanese political leader, was interviewed by Mr. Tan Yen-kai, Chairman of the Nanking Administrative Council this morning. The result of the meeting is stated to be satisfactory.

Shortly before noon, the Japanese leader visited the Nanking Municipal Government and the Mayor, Mr. Liu Chi-wen, personally escorted him around the various departments of his office. At three o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Tokonami conferred with the President of the State Council, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek. The pourparlers, which dealt with various Sino-Japanese problems, lasted for two hours. Details of the meeting have been kept secret at present.

It is said that Marshal Chiang gave a very courteous reception to the Japanese guest, who before departure from Chiang's residence intimated his intention of paying respects at the tombs of the fallen Chinese soldiers and citizens and the former Chinese Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Tainanfu, who perished during the May incident. Mr. Tokonami's sojourn in Tainanfu will be very brief, for he intends visiting Shanghai a second time before going back to Japan.

Mr. Tokonami and his party have been invited to attend a banquet to be given in their honour by Messrs. Tai Chi-tao and Wu Han-min, and he also intends to confer with Marshal Feng Yuhsiang to-morrow.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN THE CITY.

Telegraph representative left the scene at 10.30 this morning.

Banknotes Charred.

The cause of the fire is unknown. The ground floor of No. 20 where it originated, was occupied as a joss-stick and paper shop, containing much material of a nature which to some degree has explained the fierceness and rapidity of the spread.

An interesting find was a small safe which was so scorched by the flames and heat that banknotes of an allegedly big amount, which it is supposed to contain, are said to have been reduced to charred paper.

Some idea of the intensity of the heat engendered was to be gained from the evidence furnished by a twisted mass of iron which is all that remains of an iron bed.

Four More Bodies.

Later.
Fire Brigade Headquarters at 1.30 this afternoon report the recovery, from the ruins of house No. 20, of four other bodies, in addition to the one recovered earlier. The list of casualties up to that hour therefore comprises one man, two women and two children killed, and one man seriously injured.

The fact that all the bodies were recovered from the one house in which the outbreak originated illustrates the suddenness with which the blaze started. The man and the two women who were killed were living in an upper floor. The position in which the bodies of the two children were found indicated that they took refuge in the kitchen at the rear of the premises and were trapped.

REFUSE DUMP TO GARDEN CITY.

VIENNA HOUSING PROBLEM

Vienna, November 8.

Part of Ottakring, the sixteenth district of Vienna, known under the name of "Sandlitten," was used for years as a refuse dump. But the municipality resolved to transform the place into a kind of garden city, and after four years' labour has now finished the construction of a new town which will house some 7,000 persons.

The place, which is to be opened for use in a short time, will have 1,600 flats, a large number of shops and storehouses, library, theatre and cinema, kindergarten, public bath, post-office, cafe and restaurant, park, etc. Its architecture is modern town-style, with a smack of the rustic. Round its centre, the Matteotti Square, the streets are grouped. Some streets and squares are called after Liebknecht, Rosa Luxemburg, Nietzsche, and others.

The Strongest Teams.

The draw is somewhat remarkable in that it might almost have been arranged to make things as easy as possible for the leading Scottish clubs. Rangers, Hearts, Motherwell, Aberdeen, Kilmarnock, Celtic, Hibernians, and St. Mirren, the first eight in the Scottish League table, are all at home with the exception of the last named, who are presented with the task of defeating Nithdale Wanderers away.

Eleven of the twenty clubs in the First Division are playing at home, while in only two instances do they meet teams of their own status.

English Cup Re-Play.

By defeating Scarborough at Darlington at two goals to one, Darlington to-day qualified to meet Bury in the Third Round of the F. A. Cup Competition. Bury are called upon to travel to Darlington for the match.

In the Northern Section of the Third Division, New Brighton to-day defeated Carlisle by the only goal of a keen game.—Reuter.

BRITISH TRADE RETURNS.

INCREASE IN EXPORTS OVER ELEVEN MONTHS.

GRATIFYING FEATURE.

London, Dec. 12.

The Board of Trade returns for November show that imports were valued at £106,855,875 compared with £107,488,718 in the corresponding month of 1927.

Exports were £53,760,502 compared with £70,609,651.

For the first eleven months of this year, the imports totalled £1,095,000,000, this being a decrease of £18,500,000 compared with the corresponding period of last year.

The exports for the eleven months totalled £663,000,000, being an increase of £12,750,000.

The decrease in November, exports is largely accounted for by a reduction in the exports of cotton and woollen goods amounting to £3,500,000. There was also a decrease in the exports of vehicles, including locomotives, ships and aircraft, to an extent of £870,000.

The increase of exports for the eleven months' period is, however, a gratifying feature.—British Wireless.

An open verdict was returned at the inquest on Dora Mary Smith, 24, of Epsom, who was found dead on the Cheam-road, with injuries apparently the result of being struck by a car.
